Live Bait Legend

The story of Jeb Boudreaux has been handed down through time by the residents of Pleasure Island. He laid claim to his stake of land in Orange Beach, off Highway 182, as we know it today.

Jeb had many a curious visitor and an occasional tourist but none ever made it back from the swampy, moss laden cabin to tell us of his hospitality.

On a clear night those who dare not venture in — could stand on high ground and see the neon eyes of the gators in the moonlight. There would be old Jeb standing on the end of his pier enjoying a few spirits and fishing with LIVE BAIT. His gators were well fed.

After a week of work and fishin, weekends were spent cookin, singin and dancin on the pier. So in honor of Jeb we'd like you to come in, relax and enjoy.

Use our deck with caution and maybe even try some of our blackened gator.
